FULL IMMERSION IN GYNECOLOGIC ONCOLOGY SURGERY

March 3-4 - ONLINE COURSE

SENTINEL LYMPH NODE IN GYNECOLOGIC CANCER

Sentinel lymph node biopsy is becoming increasingly popular as a way to accurately detect lymph node involvement without inducing the long-term lymphatic complications of full lymph node dissection.

The major objectives of the course, combining interactive online theoretical and video sessions, are to shorten the learning curve of the method, to improve its accuracy, and to make its implementation logical and safe in the era of individualized cancer treatment.

April 11-13 - ON-SITE COURSE

OUT-OF-THE BOX GYNECOLOGIC CANCER SURGERY

This course is designed to familiarize the gynecologic oncologist with techniques that are outside his specialty knowledge, with the participation of surgeons from different specialties. They will be asked to convey the technical messages making safer extensive surgeries for the management of peritoneal carcinomatosis and recurrences.

The course will include lectures on anatomy, extended resections in all areas of the pelvis, abdominal cavity, thorax, perineum, and abdominal wall. Emphasis will be made on the surgical culture required to extend the possibilities of surgery.
